Introduction by Lorelei Shannon

WELCOME TO KING'S QUEST VII, IN THIS,
SIERRA ON-LINE'S 15TH
YEAR! I HAVE TO ADMIT, I REALLY LOVE THIS GAME, AND I THINK YOU WILL
TOO. IT HAS FANTASTIC ART, INCREDIBLE ANIMATION, AN EXCELLENT AND INVOLVING

STORYLINE, AND TERRIFIC DIALOG. WELL, THAT'S MY (SLIGHTLY BIASED) OPINION AS CO-DESIGNER, ANYWAY. I'M SURE YOU'D RATHER HEAR FROM ROBERTA WILLIAMS...

An Interview with Roberta

Roberta Williams, creator of the King's Quest series

So the project was finally winding down (at least in the design phase). I invited Roberta out to lunch to talk about the seventh King's Quest game. We were relaxing over pasta and iced lattés, talking about dogs and kids, movies, books and games. We caught up on our chatting (which we're wont to do whenever we get together—just ask Ken), and then it was time to get to work. I pulled out my handy-dandy pocket tape recorder and plunked it on the table. Roberta leaned back in her chair, smiling up at the (rarely) blue Seattle sky as I asked her the first question.

Lorelei: I can't believe the King's Quest series is up to seven! We've come a long way since Quest for the Crown. How would you say this King's Quest is different from the KQs that have come before it?

Roberta: This King's Quest has very different animation. I would call it feature-film style, which is a different thing for King's Quest. It also features two protagonists, which is different and unique for the series. Both of them happen to be female, which I think is an interesting twist. I think having female protagonists added a softer, more whimsical approach to the game.

Lorelei: Less bashing and more thinking?

Roberta: Yeah. Less of the maho element. But I think players will find the King's Quest I: FGA

King's Quest VII: VTD

puzzles just as challenging and fun. Let's see, how else is it different? Well, it's written in chapters, which you can play in any order. You can skip around, like a book. Although King's Quest VII has a continuous storyline, each chapter is complete in and of itself. They're almost like little mini-games within the larger game. You also alternate characters with the chapters. You're Valanice, then Rosella, then Valanice, and so on. Of course, they do come together at the end ..

Lorelei: So it's more conducive to people's active lifestyles. They're not faced with a huge, endless-looking game; they can actually see goals, and gauge their progress through the chapters.

Roberta: Yes. Absolutely. But it's still a complete, rich storyline, and a long, satisfying game. The story is more compelling than previous King's Quests, and the art is more like an animated feature film than what people think of as "computer art". I think this one will be a hit in the mass market.

Lorelei: One thing that people always seem to notice about King's Quest is that you put a lot of yourself into the game; plenty of fun and humor. What is your favorite part of the game design process?

Roberta: Hmm. I think my favorite part is coming up with the story at the beginning. You know, thinking about what is this story, who is the character, what are they going to do. It's almost like playing a game yourself. Sometimes when you start, you don't know how the design is going to end. It's kind of a weird, vicarious way of playing your own game before anybody else does. (laughs) In fact, after writing these games, I find it anticlimactic to play someone else's adventure game. I'd rather be designing!

Lorelei: Do you have a favorite part of King's Quest VII?

Roberta: Give me a minute. I've been so immersed in *Phantasmagoria (laughs) Oh, gosh. I think the Troll Underground is so much fun. I like all the trolls; they have a lot of personality. I also like Ooga Booga a lot.

Lorelei: That's my favorite part

Roberta: (laughs) That figures. I don't know. Maybe I just like the more sinister aspects of the game ..

Lorelei: Do I sense a little Phantasmagoria creeping in here?

Roberta: That's what it is! Maybe I just got saturated with Phantasmagoria and I can't get it out of my head. (laughs) Anyway, those two areas seem to have a little more humor, and they're a little more tongue-in-cheek and quirky than the rest of the game

*Footnote. In case you haven't heard, Phantasmagoria is Roberta's new adult horror game. With a 3-D rendered environment, live videotaped actors, and an ultra-spooky storyline, it's sure to make your hair stand on end and your skin crawl right off your body!

Lorelei: What do you think is the hardest part of game design?

Roberta: Probably coming up with the proper interface. That's the hardest part. The stories aren't that tough to come up with.

Lorelei: That's the good part.

Roberta: Yup. I would say the toughest things to deal with are the interface and the technical aspects of how you want the game to work. I'm not a technical person by any means, but I have enough of an understanding to know what I can and can't do on the machine. I put a lot of thought into that before I start working on a game. There's a certain visionary aspect to that. If you're thinking about a game to be released two years from now, you have to take into account what the technological advances will be.

Lorelei: Do you ever have ideas that are just beyond the ability of the computer to execute?

Roberta: All the time. That's one reason some of my games are ahead of their time. I like to push the envelope. My ideas are bigger than reality, for the most part. I always have to take it down a little bit. Of course, I'm in a unique position there. It helps to be a co-founder of Sierra, and to be married to the company's president, Ken Williams.

Lorelei: So you work with Ken during the design process when you're trying to figure out if you can actually do something on the computer?

Roberta: Oh yeah. A lot of people don't realize this, but Ken was a programmer before he was a president of a company, and he was actually an extremely good programmer. He's worked with compiler development, language development, artificial intelligence, lots of things. There are probably very few people in the computer industry that are better than Ken in the areas of programming and technology. It's just that he doesn't get much time to do that any more.

Lorelei: Do you think he misses it?

Roberta: I know he does. We talk about “One of those days when we’re retired, what will we do?” I talk about maybe writing books, he talks about going back to programming. He really loves it. I’m very lucky I can talk to Ken about these ideas

Lorelei: Are you planning on doing King’s Quest VIII?

Roberta: (grins) That’s what they tell me.

Lorelei: That’s great. What do you see in the future for King’s Quest?

Roberta: Boy. At this point in time, I already have two games in my head, and I really don’t want to think about a third! The possibilities are endless.

Lorelei: It’ll just have to be a surprise.

Roberta: Sure will! (laughs)

So what was it like to work with Roberta? Well, it really wasn’t bad, other than the occasional severe beatings she gave me, and the cattle prod she keeps in her desk. MADE YOU LOOK! I’m just kidding. It was terrific. Roberta is a delightful, creative and intelligent person. There’s no such thing as impossible when you’re working with her. She has a wonderfully infectious laugh, just like a little girl. Sometimes when we were jamming on ideas, coming up with every possible solution we could think of for a puzzle, we’d get really silly and just crack each other up. We’d be there with our heads on the table giggling wildly, and Ken would come in and roll his eyes at us and say “Don’t you have WORK to do?” That would only make us giggle harder. Let me tell you a secret. That’s where great ideas come from—fun. The more you laugh and open your eyes and enjoy the world, the more your mind will open and ideas will flow. Don’t get me wrong. Designing King’s Quest VII was hard work. Sometimes it was stay-up-all-night-and-drink-coffee-til-your-eyes-bug hard work. But it was always fun, because Roberta made it fun. When you play, I think you’ll feel it.

The Making of King's Quest VII

THE ART

Let's face it. This game is downright gorgeous. From the glowing hand-painted backgrounds to the hilarious animation, King's Quest VII rocks. It took a lot of work, imagination and creativity to get that way.

"The look of King's Quest VII," says Art Designer Andy Moyos, "is that of an intensely brilliant cartoon. It's different from anything we've done before in the series. We were inspired by the animated feature films of Disney and Don Bluth...particularly "Aladdin." The intensity of the palette used by the "Aladdin" artists was amazing."

Amazing is a good word for King's Quest VII's nearly one hundred hand-painted backgrounds. Each one is a stunning work of art, created by some of the finest artists in the gaming industry. Once completed, each painting was scanned into the computer, retaining all of its sharpness and detail thanks to high resolution.

When asked what his favorite area of the game might be, Andy had to think hard. He (quite understandably) likes the entire game, and all of its different regions. After a while, he answered, "Probably the troll area. I'm not sure exactly why...Well, actually I think it's the characters in that region that I really like. As for backgrounds, I'd have to say Ooga Booga is my favorite. I guess I'm just drawn to creepiness (laughs).

Ooga Booga is a wonderful region of the game, but I suspect Andy's choice has been influenced by all the long hours he's spent art directing Phantasmagoria simultaneously with King's Quest VII. If that doesn't impress you, it should! An art director has an awesome responsibility to the project. "As Art Director," says Andy, "I'm responsible for the overall look of the project—the directions it takes aesthetically. I supervise the artistic end of the project, and make sure there's consistency between the animation and the backgrounds and everything. I have to break down the script into its individual constituent parts, analyze it, and figure out what art is needed. Keeping consistency throughout a game is very hard. But it's worth it. Coming up with the concepts for the environments is so much fun. Every time we do a new game, a whole new look is called for. I have such a lucky job. When I think about it, every aspect of what I do is so engrossing...even having to work on two projects simultaneously. The ability to switch gears and immerse myself in each project one after the other was a lot of fun."

I couldn't resist asking Andy if it was tiring. He just grinned at me and said, "What do you think?"

THE ANIMATION

You've never seen animation like this in a Sierra game before. In fact, you've probably never seen it in any other computer game before. It's feature-film quality animation, with characters that are lively, funny, and altogether unique. Lead animator Marc Hudgins had this to say about them: "The characters in KQVII run the gamut, from very 'straight' characters such as Rosella and Valanice, to the very cartooned types like the jackalope or the ghoul kids. For a character designer, they provided a great range of character types to develop. I really got to stretch myself as an artist designing all of these different character types."

Every piece of animation in the game is traditional paper animation, where each individual frame or "cel" of animation is drawn in pencil by an artist. Says Marc Hudgins: "The process is identical to the animation process used by feature films and television. The only difference is that we scan the animation into the computer in its pencil phase, then color it digitally, then it is programmed into the game. The difference between game animation and traditional animation keeps getting more and more blurred. These days the traditional studios are using computers to scan and do their ink and paint just as we do. They even use computers instead of cameras to actually film the animation. On the other hand, we are beginning to incorporate more cinematic techniques into our games. It's kind of funny."

This is just a small portion of an animation sequence of a glom kid climbing up to his treehouse. This sequence actually took 40 individual drawings!

You'll see lots of funny things as you play this game. But fun has a price, and that's a lot of grueling work. For Marc Hudgins, coordinating a project this size was a Herculean task. "This was something new to all parties involved," he said. "To start with, the needs of this project were such that we used outside animation houses to help us. We had never gone outside our own art department for animation before. Second, most of the animation houses we were dealing with had little or no experience with making games. It was a bit of a challenge trying to communicate concepts unique to computer games, such as generic animation (animation that can happen anywhere) and the idea that three or four different actions could branch off of one animation. Just to make it a little more complex, some of the studios were in other parts of the world (St. Petersburg, Russia and Croatia), so we had language barriers to hurdle as well."

Despite the enormity of the task, Marc and the Sierra animators, with a little help from their friends around the world, created the most excellent animation in a computer game to date.

THE MUSIC

Whenever I tested King's Quest VII in my office at Sierra, the music and sound effects would always draw people in from the halls. Once they got in and saw the art and animation, it was all over. I had an audience for the rest of the afternoon. But I really can't blame them. The music of this game is pretty irresistible, thanks to musicians Jay Usher, Mark Seibert, and Neal Grandstaff. When asked about creating the music for a game this size, Jay had this to say: "With a game like King's Quest VII having over 70 distinctly different characters and moving through a myriad of completely different areas of play, it becomes quite a feat to keep the music for two separate heroines and the characters they meet transitioning smoothly at all times. I feel it's my responsibility to compose a musical score that creates the emotion to carry the player along through the game. The last time I counted, it looked like we were up in about 120 different tunes to accomplish this goal."

And where does the inspiration for this much music come from? Both Jay and Mark agree. "It comes from the characters themselves," says Mark. "I'm always bugging the artists to give me a copy of their pencil sketches," says Jay. "Just seeing how a character carries himself, acts, or walks ultimately determines the outcome of the music. We've tried to give each character his or her own 'mini-theme.' Each character is unique, so the music should be as well."

This game has music from beginning to end, just like a movie score. When the scene is scary, so is the music. When it's funny, the music is too. The hardware has literally caught up with the musician's ability to tell a musical story, to bring out the emotion of the action. "With the emergence of CD-ROM Multimedia computers," says Jay, "I finally feel that some of the limitations we've had to deal with in the past have been lifted and we're able to write what we hear in our hearts."

And all those sound effects? Every one had to be added into the game by the musicians, whether they looked them up in sound effect libraries, or created their own. Whenever I looked in on the sound studio, everybody seemed to be having way too much fun. Jay protests: "You don't realize how difficult it is to create a truly believable 'raspberry' until you've had to record it yourself!"

THE PROGRAMMING

After all of this art, animation, music and sound is done, somebody has to pull it together. Those somebodies are the programmers. They are the people who weave the game together, making everything work in harmony as it should. This takes an enormous effort by a lot of people. Directing this effort are lead programmers Oliver Eirelford and Henry Yu. Oliver had this to say about his job: "I can't imagine what I'd rather be doing than taking beautiful paintings, wonderfully animated characters, music, voices and sound effects, and bringing them all to life in one seamless, interactive, cinematic experience. It's a thrill to think of the thousands of people who will enjoy what we've created."

Oliver makes it sound easy, but his job is a lot tougher than he lets on. The lead programmer must act as a liaison between programming and all of the other sub-teams, such as art and music. He also delegates programming tasks and schedules, synchronizing the flow of the workload to avoid bottlenecks. When you're dealing with a game this size, it's an astonishing feat. After all, King's Quest VII has at least five times as much animation as any other Sierra game ever created. Nope, that wasn't a misprint. Five times. No, really!

QUALITY ASSURANCE

Says Quality Assurance lead Dan Woodard: "QA is the last hurdle to be leapt before shipping. By walking the line between the designers' conception and the programmers' implementation, we often end up making neither happy, but all that comes with the territory. We're not content until the game looks good, sounds good, and plays good. The proof is the final version and, as always, the public lets us know how well we did the job."

So you think it would be fun to play games all day long? HA!! You see, part of the designer's job is testing the game for consistency.

Roberta and I had to play the game until our eyes bugged out of our heads. I love Valanice with all my heart, but so help me, about the zillionth time she landed in the desert and asked for Rosella, I found my hand closing on a big, heavy edition of Roget's Thesaurus...But it was all worth it. That's what I keep telling myself anyway, as I sit in my lovely, clean, white cell and count my toes.

PULLING IT ALL TOGETHER:
THE PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Yes, there is somebody who has to oversee the entire production of an adventure game. Someone who has to make sure that all of the development teams—design, art, programming, music and QA—are working together to produce the best game possible. That person on King's Quest VII is our project manager, Mark Seibert. Mark not only coordinated the efforts of an enormous number of people, he did the scheduling, budgeting, tracking, and all the icky paperwork that every game requires and no one wants to do. If you had a question for him, he was there. In fact, he was ALWAYS there. I have a sneaking suspicion that he was living under his desk for a while. He put in more hours than anyone should ever have to. As he said, in his understated fashion.

"King's Quest VII was a real challenge from the beginning. I've enjoyed working on the King's Quest series since KQIV, as a musician; KQV as lead composer; KQVI, when I wrote "Ghl in the Tower," and now producing the latest chapter in the saga, KQVII. The high resolution art and paper animation have made this, in my opinion, the most beautiful animated adventure yet. Take a look at the credits and consider the hundreds of people who worked on this project. It's been a real challenge trying to keep everyone going in the same direction."

I'll bet it was, too.

A Summary of King's Quest

KING'S QUEST

Quest for the Crown

It was just a few days past Sir Graham's 19th birthday, but the young knight was bummed. Good King Edward was dying. Edward called for Graham, who was his favorite knight, and sent him on a dangerous mission. You see, many years back, the king had lost the three great treasures of Davenry: Merlin's Mirror, the Shield of Achilles, and the Chest of Gold. How'd he manage that, you ask? Well, between you and me, King Edward was a really sweet old guy, but a little naïve. Anyway, ever since the magic treasures had been missing, the kingdom had gone into a tailspin. Edward sent Graham out to recover the lost treasures before the Kingdom of Davenry bit the dust, and promised to make the young knight king if he succeeded. Graham set out to look for the lost goodies, and found out in a big hurry what a mess Davenry had become. Under the influence of evil, it had filled up with witches, ogres, wicked sorcerers, and all sorts of unsavory critters. Graham was a smart kid, so he managed to whip them all, either by knocking the stuffing out of them, or outwitting them (ogres aren't the smartest guys around). He also made quite a few good buds, who helped him on his way. To make a long story short, he found the three treasures, and returned to the castle victorious. Graham was crowned king, but a few hours later, poor old Edward passed out of this veil of tears. That night, after his coronation, King Graham went into his chambers and cried, which goes to show you that it's OK for strong, brave dudes to show their feelings.

KING'S QUEST II

Romancing the Throne

Not too long after he took over the throne of Daventry, Graham realized that he was a lonely guy. Kings have a lot of responsibility, and it's hard for them to get out and meet girls. Graham was staring into the magic mirror one day, wondering if his biceps needed more work, when he saw a vision of the most beautiful lady in the world. This lovely babe was wasting away in a tower, so Graham wasted no time in setting out to find her. He packed his suntan lotion and headed for the tropical kingdom of Kolyma, searching for the three magic doors that would lead him to his lady's prison. Along the way, he met one of the magical, mysterious merfolk, who decided he was cool and introduced him to King Neptune. He entered the home of Hagatha, evil witch, lousy housekeeper, and kidnapper of Valanice (the woman of Graham's dreams), and he rescued a magical nightingale from right under her (pretty major) nose. He freed a winged horse from an evil spell which had turned it into a snake. Graham even met some dead guys, and if you've ever met any, you know dead guys always have a really nasty attitude. He finally got to the Enchanted Isle, where Valanice was still locked up, wasting away from boredom and bad tower food. The tower was guarded by a humongous lion, which the good-hearted

Graham managed to defeat without spilling a drop of its blood.

So Graham freed Valanice, and she took one look at him and decided he had a really cute thing going on. She flipped for him. They were married immediately, and they're still crazy about each other to this day.

KING'S QUEST III

To Heir is Human

Talk about a bad break! King Graham and Queen Valanice produced the cutest pair of twins anybody'd ever seen. But when the baby boy was still just a squeaker, he was snatched from his home by the evil wizard Manannan, and ritade a slave. He was so little when the nasty sorceret took him that he never even knew he was a prince. That creepy Manannan even changed the boy's name from Alexander to Gwydion. He made the poor kid clean his house, take care of his animals, cook for him, and basically do all his dirty work. He would punish poor Gwydion in a totally harsh manner for the smallest mistake, and sometimes for nothing at all. The one good thing Manannan did was to teach Gwydion to read. That was a big mistake, because knowledge really is power! Gwydion figured out that Manannan intended to kill him on his eighteenth birthday (some present!), and that was only a few weeks away. Gwydion dug through the wizard's books and found a righteous spell. He whipped up a cookie that turned the foul-tempered warlock into a foul-tempered alley cat. Gwydion hot-footed it down the mountain and got the heck out of there. After a dangerous adventure and a close encounter with some cranky pirates, Gwydion (he's really Alexander, though, remember?) jumped ship and swam to an unknown shore. What luck! He'd landed in Davenry! He didn't have much time to be jazzed about this, because a dragon was about to barbeque his long-lost twin sister Rosella. Using a big bad spell, Alexander clobbered the dragon. He was reunited with his family, and took his rightful place as crown prince. You can still make him look if you call him Gwydion, though.

KING'S QUEST IV

The Perils of Rosella

The royal family of Davenry just can't get a break. During the big party after Alexander's return, poor King Graham collapsed. Watching his daughter almost get turned into Dragon Flambe and then suddenly finding his long-lost son was just too much for his heart to handle. It looked like he was headed down that final road to Angelville, when a fairy queen named Genesta appeared to Rosella in the magic mirror. She told Rosella that there was this magic fruit in a land called Tamir which would save Graham's life. Genesta couldn't get it herself, because she'd been beaten up by the local evil fairy, Lolotte, who wanted to take over Tamir. Lolotte had swiped Genesta's magic talisman, which was a really powerful thing. With it, Lolotte could take over not just Tamir, but probably the rest of the world as well. This was not good, because evil fairies just don't make caring world leaders. Genesta whisked Rosella away to Tamir so she could get the fruit herself. After befriending seven dwarves, ditching a troll, and charming a snake, Rosella found the fruit. Just then Lolotte sent some foul flying monkeys to snatch her up and carry her to the wicked fairy's castle. Rosella cleverly convinced Lolotte that she was just a peasant girl, which undoubtedly saved her bacon. Instead of killing her, Lolotte demanded that Rosella bring her three treasures which she hadn't been able to get for herself (bad fairies can't do everything, luckily). Rosella went out and got the three treasures, but when she got back, Lolotte laid a bombshell on her: she had decided to marry Rosella to her deformed son, Edgar. Rosella was mortified, but she soon found out that good looks aren't everything. Edgar, who was really a sweet guy, helped her escape from her room. Rosella crept into Lolotte's boudoir and shot her right through the heart with the golden arrow of Cupid. This caused the black-hearted fairy to have a love overload, and she dropped dead. Rosella took the talisman from her and headed back for Genesta's island. Using the talisman, Rosella fixed the severely sick Genesta right up. She also told the good fairy what a great guy Edgar was, so Genesta turned him into gorgeous young dude. Edgar had fallen hard for Rosella, and he asked her to marry him, but Rosella was just a kid and she wasn't ready for marriage. She let poor Edgar down easy, and went back to Davenry to save her dad. The family was finally all together again. For about five minutes.

KING'S QUEST V

Absence Makes the Heart Go Yonder

Graham was out taking a stroll in the woods one day when his castle flew away. No, really. There was this big blast of evil magic, and the castle (with his whole family inside it) was gone. It just so happened that this owl named Cedric had seen the whole thing. He told Graham that Mordack, the brother of Manannan (remember him? Cat man?) had kidnapped his family in revenge for his brother's kittyfication. Cedric took Graham to a nice wizard named Crispinopher in the land of Serenia, who helped him prepare for his trip to Mordack's island. Crispin gave Graham a bite of whitenake to help him talk to animals, a battered magic wand, and Cedric, who whined about it, but finally agreed to go. Graham and Cedric stopped in at the capital of Serenia for supplies, and then headed off across the burning desert. They nearly croaked of thirst, sunburn, chapped lips and beaks. They managed to give some nasty handis the slip, and finally got to the other side of the desert alive. They cut a deal with some savvy Gypsies, and then ventured into the Dark Forest. They met a wicked witch in the woods who would just as soon eat them as look at them, and they had to deal with a slippery little elf. Things got longer from there. They kept going north, climbing up into some totally extreme and frozen mountains. The cold-hearted Queen Icebella captured them, but Graham managed to charm her, so she didn't feed him to her fearsome wolves. After meeting Bigfoot (no, really), Graham and Cedric got the heck out of the mountains. They found a boat on the shore of the ocean, and headed out to sea. The weather started getting rough, the tiny ship was tossed, and they ended up on an island full of man- and owl-eating harpies. They escaped by the skin of their teeth (I never understood that expression), but Cedric got the stuffing knocked out of him. He seemed to be winging his way to that great big birdcage in the sky. Graham packed him up anyway, got back into his boat, and kept sailing. They finally reached Mordack's castle. They snuck past the enchanted laser gates and wound their way through a labyrinth, looking for any trace of the royal family. Graham met the gorgeous princess Cassima, who had been enslaved by Mordack,

He promised to free her. She didn't believe him, because at that point, she didn't trust guys very much. Would you? Anyway, Graham found his family, and was he bummed. They had been shrunken down and stuck in a little glass bottle! Manannan the Kanky Kitty showed up to hassle him, but Graham bagged him. He recharged Crispin's wand in a bizarre cheese-powered machine, and got into an intense magical duel with Mordack. King Graham was doing really well for a guy who doesn't know beans about magic, but Mordack was about to whip him when Cedric managed to haul his pathetic sell up and save Graham from a deadly blast of magic. Graham stomped Mordack once and for all, and his family was freed. So was Princess Cassima, who decided that all men aren't creeps after all. In fact, she decided Prince Alexander was kind of cute. She went back to her home in the Green Isles, and the royal family went back to Daventry and slept for a week. Cedric? Oh, he got over it. Owls have good immune systems.

KING'S QUEST VI

Heir Today, Gone Tomorrow

The royal family of Daventry was finally all together. No one was kidnapped, no one had heart disease, and everyone was content. Okay, not everyone. Alexander was pining away for the lovely Cassima. He had taken one look at her and fallen madly in love. He was gazing into the magic mirror one day (doesn't that thing cause a lot of trouble?) and saw that poor Cassima had been locked up in a tower! He decided to sail out to the Green Isles and try to save her. His ship sailed for months, and finally one night it hit a terrible storm. The ship went down, and Alexander was separated from his crew. He started exploring the island where he'd been washed up, and found out that he had actually made it to the Green Isles, and had landed on the Isle of the Crown. He went to the castle to see Cassima, but he was told by the very sneaky-looking Vizier that she was engaged, and she didn't want to see him. Alexander didn't buy that one. Instead, he bought a magic map that allowed him to hop around between the various Green Isles in search of a way to save Cassima. He went to the Isle of Wonder, where he met a pack of punk gnomes and a bunch of talking veggies. He started to venture into Chess Land, but the silly sniping between the Red and White Queen was enough to make him want to keep out of it. He went to the Isle of the Sacred Mountain, where he had to climb a brain-buster of a cliff. He solved all of the riddles, got the top, crawled into a cave, and found himself in a mind-boggling set of catacombs. I mean, these things were so bad, you could get lost just standing in one place. Cleverly avoiding the catacombs' tricks and traps, he got to the lair of a hideous Minotaur, who wanted to eat him for lunch. The Minotaur was basically a big bull at heart, and Alexander took care of him like any good toreador would. Alex finally got out of the catacombs, and was he glad to get some fresh air! He got to meet the lovely but snobbish Winged Ones, and an incredibly wise oracle. From there, he went to the mysterious Isle of the Mists, where the Druids hang out and do their Druid thing. So he kept on bouncing between the Islands, bringing Beauty and her Beast together, belting a down-in-the-mouth down, and being followed around by a sneaky golden-eyed genie. Alexander even ventured into the Realm of the Dead, where all those dead guys with nasty attitudes originate. He got into it with the Lord of the Dead (yikes!) and won, saving the lives of Cassima's parents, the King and Queen of the Green Isles. All that was left to do was to save the princess herself. Alex snuck into the castle, managed to evade the fuzzy but fang-faced canine guards (imagine six-foot Scotty dogs with swords. Gives me the chills!), and burst in on the wedding of Cassima and the Vizier. There was a big hullabaloo, everybody was having a major cow—and Cassima turned into the genie! Okay, it wasn't really her. Cassima was never going to marry the Vizier. See, he just wanted to marry her so he could kill her and take over the throne, so he had the genie impersonate her—anyway. The upshot of all of this is, with Cassima's help, Alexander kicked the Vizier's pants, and the happy couple got married. Yay!

KING'S QUEST VII

The Princeless Bride

You think I'm giving you a plot summary before the hint section? HAHI!

How This Book Works

The whole point of playing King's Quest VII is to explore its amazing regions for yourself, and to solve the many puzzles you will find there. However, some puzzles may be so well-hidden that you don't know where to begin. If this is your first experience with an adventure game, the whole thing may seem strange and baffling to you. If you feel you're really stuck at any point, look through this book until you find the question that best describes your problem.

Think of this book as your complete reference to King's Quest VII. The hint answers are arranged so that the first statement you read will usually be a subtle hint, and the last will be an outright solution. An answer with an asterisk (*) beside it will be very specific, often giving you the exact actions to perform in order to solve the puzzle. We recommend you read only the hints you need and avoid reading the last answer of each question unless, of course, you're completely stumped. If you read every starred answer in this book, you'll complete the game very quickly, but you'll miss the challenge and excitement of exploring this marvelous world and solving its puzzles for yourself. For maximum adventuring pleasure, use this book with discretion!

SOME GENERAL ADVICE ABOUT THIS ADVENTURE GAME

- ♦ Read your documentation.
- ♦ Sierra adventure games open whole new worlds to you, and it's up to you to explore them. Walk around and explore by clicking the play cursor where you want to go.
- ♦ Move your cursor over the play screen. When the cursor highlights, that means you can click on that object and something will happen. What exactly will happen? That's for you to find out.
- ♦ I suggest that you try to interact with every character you meet every time you meet them, and always listen to what they have to say. It could be important!
- ♦ If the solution for a puzzle doesn't seem to be found in the region where you're currently playing, go back to the regions where you've been. You may think you've completed that region, but things can change while you're not looking.
- ♦ King's Quest VII is made up of chapters, and you can play the chapters in any order you wish. We suggest that you play it start to finish, so that you can experience the story as a whole. However, if you wish to play any chapter more than once, or out of order, just select that chapter when the Options screen comes up at the start of the game. When you do this, conditions will be different than if you played a continuous game—you will only have what you need for that chapter in your inventory, and optional things that could have

INVENTORY OBJECTS

- ◆ Sometimes when you click on an object on the screen, you will take it, and it will appear in your onscreen inventory.
- ◆ Once you have them, you can click inventory objects on other objects and characters on the screen. Pass your inventory item over the screen. If it highlights, you can use it there.
- ◆ You should inspect each inventory object carefully by clicking that object on the EYE next to the inventory window. Be sure to rotate it by dragging the cursor inside the inventory close-up window. Some inventory objects may hold secrets.
- ◆ You can sometimes combine inventory objects to create a third object by clicking one object on the other in the inventory window.
- ◆ You can sometimes “separate” an inventory object into two separate parts by clicking that object when it is in close-up view. Think creatively, and have fun!

PART II

H I N T S

◆ ◆ ◆ GENERAL QUESTIONS ◆ ◆ ◆

The music is too loud! The music is too soft!

- ◆ Click on the red jewel next to the inventory window to bring up the control panel. You can change the volume of the music by clicking on the arrows.

How can I save a game? How can I restore a game?

- ◆ Your documentation will tell you all.

I saw in the documentation that I can examine inventory objects up close. How exactly do I do that?

- ◆ Click on the object in your inventory. Click the object on the golden eye next to the inventory window. To rotate the object, click and drag your cursor in the direction you want the object to rotate. To exit the close-up, click on the square in the upper left hand corner of the close-up window.

I have to go to the dentist/meet with world leaders/get to school in half an hour, but I want to finish my chapter. How do I know how far I have to go?

- ◆ Click on the red jewel at the bottom of the screen to bring up the control panel. There is a chapter gauge on the panel that will tell you how far along you are.

This game is too hard!

- ◆ Nah. Make sure you click on anything and everything you can, and more than once! Listen carefully to every word the characters speak. Watch for all visual and musical clues. Almost everything you need to know to solve any puzzle will be given to you in the game.

What's with the button with the >> on it?

- ◆ That is a fast-forward button which will allow you to skip cartoons. We suggest you do not skip a cartoon until you have seen it at least once. You could miss something really important!

CHAPTER ONE

"Where in the blazes am I?"

What am I doing here? Why am I just standing in this desert?

- ◆ You're just standing there because you have to click the play cursor to make your character walk. Explore the area? Click on anything that isn't matted down? Move the cursor around the screen to find highlighted areas to click on.

I've been wandering around the desert, but I can't leave! How do I get out of here?

- ◆ Ask the desert spirit. He knows.
- ◆ Look ahead. Stare the problem right in the mouth.
- ◆ The way to leave the desert is through the mouth of the giant colossus head.

Can I open the mouth of the colossus head?

- ◆ It's a two part question.
- ◆ There are two turquoise keys which, when used together, can open the mouth of the great stone head.

Where are the two turquoise keys?

- ♦ Find them yourself! You can discover that by playing the game.

♦ heav.

(Oh, all right. One is locked inside the altar in the stepped pyramid. The other is at the bottom of the pool of salt water. There will "unlock" the mouth of the cactus head.)

I knocked on the door of the "Rare Curiosities" shop, but the owner just keeps slamming the door in my face.

- ♦ He's slamming the door because he can't see you, and he doesn't know who you are.
- ♦ Maybe you should identify yourself so he won't be scared of you.

♦ Click on the kangaroo rat to talk to him.

The kangaroo rat told me that the jackalope took his glasses, but he still won't deal with me. Am I supposed to do something about it?

- ♦ Well, he didn't tell you just to make conversation.
- ♦ That jackalope is awfully irritating, isn't he? Maybe someone should slow him down.

♦ You need to catch the jackalope.

How can I possibly stop the jackalope? He's really fast.

- ♦ He sure is. He needs something that will trip him up.
- ♦ It really would be a blast to catch him, wouldn't it?
- ♦ You can catch the jackalope by using the rope or the horn.

Where do I get the rope?

- ♦ Someone has to give it to you.

♦ you the rope.

The desert spirit can give you the rope. If you have the horn, however, he will never offer

Where do I get the horn?

- ♦ The answer is blown' in the wind.

- ♦ The horn can be found in the endless desert, next to the desert spirit's body. If you have the rope, the horn will not be there anymore. To get there, walk two screens south of the screen where you first entered the desert.

Who is the desert spirit? Where can I find him?

- ♦ He's a wanderer of the outer desert.
- ♦ He's always on the move, so you have to be, too.
- ♦ He appears. Keep wandering the endless desert. He's wandering around in the endless desert. Keep wandering the endless desert until he appears.

Every time I walk out into the endless desert, I die!

- ♦ So stop doing it already!
- ♦ You don't have to wander deep into the endless desert to find the desert spirit. He hangs around the edges.
- ♦ You can't survive in the endless desert for very long. Never go more than a few screens into it. To be safe, map your progress through the desert on a sheet of graph paper. If you get lost, head north. You will eventually run into the cliff face if you can remember whether you are east or west of the main playing area, you are saved!

I drank the fresh water in the endless desert, but it didn't save me.

- ♦ The water will prolong your life, but it will not save you. It isn't meant for you.
- ♦ The fresh water will do you the most good if you give it to someone else.

I talked to the desert spirit, but he's not much help. He just keeps complaining about his thirst.

♦ That's a big fat hint, wouldn't you say?

♦ Bring him some fresh water, and he'll do something for you.

I don't have anything to carry water in.

♦ A pot would work well, don't you think?

♦ There's a pot in the cave.

I'm trying to take a pot, but they keep breaking.

♦ Not very persistent, are you?

♦ Keep trying. You'll be able to take the last one.

I gave the desert spirit some water, but he got really mad at me.

♦ That's because you gave him salt water. Geez!

♦ He wants fresh water.

♦ What? You say there is no fresh water? Then you have to make some.

How can I get fresh water?

♦ You have to create it with the water god at the well of salt water.

♦ The water god himself will tell you how.

♦ The formula for creating fresh water is on the base of the water god statue.

I found the formula for creating fresh water, but I don't understand it. What do I need to do?

♦ The first symbol represents salt water. That's what is in the pool now.

♦ The second symbol means that you have to cry into the water god's bowl.

- ◆ The third symbol means that you must place an ear of corn into the water god's hand.

◆ If you do all that, the water god's bowl will fill with fresh water.

Where do I get an ear of corn?

- ◆ There aren't any growing in the desert, so I guess you need to plant one.

◆ Plant the corn kernel in the deep sand found along the cliff edge, next to the second

Where do I get a corn kernel?

- ◆ Try the cave. Remember, check out your inventory items carefully.

◆ The corn kernel is inside the little inventory basket. You have to open the basket lid in

How do I cry into the water god's bowl?

- ◆ You have to get into the character of Valance. You're missing your daughter, right? That makes you very sad.

- ◆ Something of Rosella's will make Valance cry.

◆ Use Rosella's comb on the water god's bowl to make Valance cry into the bowl.
Note: For this to work, you must have looked at the inscription at the base of the water god statue.

The desert spirit is offering me one of two items. Which should I take?

- ◆ I'm not going to tell you that! Just pick one! There is no wrong answer.

I just got a gift from the desert spirit, but now I don't know where the heck I am!

◆ Don't panic. Just walk north and you'll find your way back to familiar territory.

I have the rope. How do I use it to catch the jackalope?

- ◆ He seems to be a fellow of habit. He always follows a particular path.

- ◆ Notice how he always runs between those two cacti? Hmm.

- ◆ and the path
Click the rope on one of the cacti to tie it across the path. Now stand back and watch!

I have the horn. How do I use it to catch the jackalope?

- ◆ Think of a jack-in-the-box
- ◆ That jackalope thinks he's perfectly safe in his hole, doesn't he? He needs to be blasted out of his complacency!
- ◆ Use the horn on one of the jackalope's holes. He'll pop out!

I gave the kangaroo rat back his glasses, and he wants to trade with me. What should I do?

- ◆ Offer him something
- ◆ Use one of your inventory objects on the kangaroo rat and see what happens.

I keep offering things to the kangaroo rat, but he just wants to trade weird things that I don't want.

- ◆ Keep trying. Maybe he'll give you something good!
- ◆ Try giving him a seed. A corn kernel is a seed, you know.

The scorpion inside the stepped pyramid keeps killing me!

- ◆ Don't just stand there and let him get you, and DON'T click on him!
- ◆ You either have to run from him (and the pyramid down), or get rid of him.

How do I get rid of the scorpion?

- ◆ There are two ways to get rid of the scorpion. One way is easy, and involves a gift someone gave you. The other is harder. You have to be more resourceful to pull this one off.
- ◆ You can use the Big Bug Reducing Powder on the scorpion to get rid of him.
- ◆ You can make the scorpion stick his tail in the wall by waving a flag at him.

Where do I get Big Bug Reducing Powder?

- ◆ The Desert Spirit can give it to you. However, if you have the rope, you can never get the Big Bug Reducing Powder. You'll have to get rid of the scorpion another way.

Where do I get a flag?

- ◆ You have to make the flag.
- ◆ Make the flag by combining the stick with the ripped piece of pelliccoat in inventory.

Where do I get the stick?

- ◆ It's just lying around. Just look for it.
- ◆ The stick is next to the pool of salt water.

Where do I get a ripped piece of pelliccoat?

- ◆ Oh, come on! You're just reading hints for the heck of it, aren't you?
- ◆ The ripped piece of pelliccoat is still on the cactus that ripped it off your dress!

Am I supposed to do something with this altar in the pyramid?

- ◆ It's a puzzle that you have to solve.
- ◆ If you solve the altar puzzle, you will get one of the turquoise keys that will get you out of the desert.

I made the scorpion stick his slinger in the wall and I'm trying to solve the altar puzzle, but the scorpion got loose and killed me.

♦ Better solve faster, he's on a short timer.

Nothing on the altar will move.

♦ Take a good look at it. It's all about rain, and crops, and green, growing things.

♦ Do you see a raindrop? How about an upside-down raindrop?

♦ Check on the upside-down raindrop to refresh the colored stones.

The colored stones on the altar came loose. What am I supposed to do with them?

♦ Have you tried taking them out and putting them other places on the altar?

♦ It's interesting how the beam of light travels right through the little statue's hands. If you were to put the colored stones in the statue's hands, it would create a beam of colored light, don't you think?

♦ What's the color of growing things?

♦ Ever? Put the blue stone and the yellow stone in the little statue's hands.

What do I do with the red stone?

♦ Do you see something on the altar that could use some fiery color?

♦ What do plants need in order to grow, other than water?

♦ Place the red gem on the sun carving on the altar. Fire comes that way!

What do I do with the purple stone?

♦ Take it into the cave and give it to the two-headed bear.

♦ AHA! There is no purple stone! (Laugh) You again!

How do I get to the bottom of the pool of salt water? I can't possibly dive that deep.

- ◆ You're right, you can't.

◆ It looks like you have to drain the pool.

How do I drain the pool of salt water?

- ◆ The answer lies somewhere in the desert.
- ◆ On a cliff in the desert, to be more specific.

◆ Click on the symbols on the cliff face next to the cave. They will tell you what to do.

I don't understand the symbols on the cliff face near the cave.

- ◆ Just between you and me, the water god is kind of two-faced.
- ◆ That collar of his looks crooked, too.
- ◆ If the water god's bowl symbolizes water, maybe you need to make it symbolize a lack of water.

◆ Click on the water god's face to turn his head around to the sun god's face. Click on the sections of the water god's collar until the three turquoise stones line up just left of its chin. Click on the sun god's wristband to turn the bowl upside-down. There goes the water.

Every time I try to take the key from the little statue's offering bowl, I drown!

- ◆ You have to leave something in the offering bowl in the place of the key.
- ◆ Something similar to what you're taking.

◆ You must leave a turquoise object in the offering bowl before you can take the key.

Where do I get a turquoise object?

- ◆ Maybe you should check out the local businesses.

◆ You can get a turquoise object from the kangaroo rat.

What can I trade to the kangaroo rat to get a turquoise object?

- ◆ He only trades for things that rhyme. You need a turquoise bead.

◆ You need to give the kangaroo rat a seed in order to get the bead.

Where do I get a seed?

- ◆ There are a couple of places to get a seed. You may already have one and not know it. How closely did you check the basket?

- ◆ Did you see anything growing in the desert that might have a seed? No, not the cactus!

◆ basket.

There is a seed inside the split gourd. There's a corn kernel (yes, that's a seed) inside the Uh-oh. I drained the pool of water, but now I think I want to give some fresh water to the desert spirit.

◆ take another cut of corn and do the whole process over.

You can refill the pool by reconfiguring (rebuilding or) any moving part of the sun god statue. If you've already made fresh water and now you need water more, you can

I have both halves of the key, but I don't know what to do with them.

- ◆ You have to use them on the door that leads out of the desert

- ◆ If you haven't figured it out yet, the colossus head is the door out of the desert. Look for something that could be a keyhole on the head.

◆ The colossus head's lip plug is the keyhole.

I can't get the pieces of the key to go into the keyhole.

♦ You can't put it into the keyhole in pieces.

♦ Put the key together in inventory first.

I have the two halves of the key, but they don't seem to fit together.

♦ Then you don't really have the two halves of the key

♦ Remember how there were two key-shaped ringworm objects in the offering bowl on the bottom of the well? You took the wrong one.

I have a false key! How do I get the real one?

♦ The same way you got the false one. You have to trade for it

♦ Just place the false key in the little statue's offering bowl, and take out the real one. The smith god won't mind.

Yes! I opened the door! But now a giant Gila monster wants to eat me, and the chapter's over!

♦ That's called a cliffhanger, dear.

CHAPTER TWO

“A troll is as a troll does.”

What the heck is going on? Princess Roselia of Daventry can't be a TROLL!

- ◆ As the jackalope would say...
- ◆ Eee hee hee hee hee!
- ◆ I guess you've got to turn her back into a troll to find a way to turn her back into a human.

I'm in the bedroom, and I'm a troll! How do I get out of here?

- ◆ Stop reading hints you don't need, you little troll, you!
- ◆ Try the door! Shovel!

Whoa. I just got yelled at by a little old lady troll, and she gave me a list of things to go get so she can turn me back into a human. What should I do?

- ◆ Trust the nice troll lady.
- ◆ Go find those ingredients!

Oh, no! I can't remember everything in the list of ingredients!

- ◆ Just click on Minibride again. She'll tell you.

Where do I get baked beetles?

- ◆ Sounds like a culinary delight to me!
- ◆ Check the kitchen. They're in the hut on the corner.

Every time I try to go into the kitchen, the cook throws me out. What should I do?

- ◆ Did you listen to what he was saying to his stew?
- ◆ There's something he'd really like to have for the final ingredient of his stew.
- ◆ You need to distract the cook with a rat.

Where do I get a rat?

- ◆ It would be pretty hard to catch a real rat. You should look for another kind of rat.
- ◆ How about a wind-up toy rat?
- ◆ The bratty little troll kept a toy rat behind in the great hall.

Where do I get a gold bowl?

- ◆ Where do you keep the bowls at your house?
- ◆ No, I'm not talking to you guys who keep them in the linen closet.
- ◆ Go look in the kitchen.

I opened the stove, and the braised warthog with lemon sauce attacked me!

- ◆ Bad rat. You're reading hints you don't need again!

Where do I get a silver spoon?

- ◆ Not in the kitchen. Sorry!
- ◆ The spoon is somewhere else. It's a brand new spoon.
- ◆ You can find a silver spoon in the metalsmithing area.

I'm in the metalsmithing area, but I don't see any spoon.

- ◆ Check in on the metalsmith from time to time. Sooner or later, he'll be casting a silver spoon for a noble.

This incredibly obnoxious metal-smith won't let me do anything in here. How can I get rid of him?

- ◆ Remember the conversation between the two lady trolls in the mud bath?
- ◆ You need to knock him out with a lump of wet sulfur
- ◆ *Heads' conversation through.
 Then the lump of wet sulfur into the forge. You can't do that until you've overheard the lady.*

Where do I get wet sulfur?

- ◆ Follow your nose. It always knows!
- ◆ Sulfur smells like rotten eggs.
- ◆ There's a lump of wet sulfur embedded in the wall of the collapsed mine shaft.

I tried to get the lump of wet sulfur, but I fell into that pit and died.

- ◆ Be careful next time. There's one particular way to get across--but keep trying.

The metalsmith is out of the way, but the mold is too hot to touch.

- ◆ Man and Troll are tool-using creatures.
- ◆ Use the tongs on the mold to pick it up.

- ♦ Use the tongs and mold on the bucket of water to cool it.

Where do I get Waice of Emerald?

- ♦ Seen any green, glowing water lately?

- ♦ Water of Emerald
There are rock formations "pots" in the collapsed mine shaft area. One of them contains

How do I take the Waice of Emerald?

- ♦ A howl would work.
- ♦ Use the gold bowl to take the Water of Emerald

Where do I get a crystal dragon scale?

- ♦ From a crystal dragon.
- ♦ There's a crystal dragon who lives beyond the stone bridge. You can get a scale from her.

I can't get across the bridge because there's a big, nasty troll guarding it.

- ♦ There's nothing you can say to him or offer him that will get you across. You're going to have to fix his wagon!
- ♦ Knock the troll off the bridge by fixing up the wagon and rickshing it down the hill.

I tried to knock the troll off the bridge with the wagon, but it only has three wheels and it went right off the bridge.

- ♦ Looks like you need another wheel.
- ♦ There aren't any wheels lying around, so you're going to have to use something shaped like a wheel.
- ♦ Fix the wagon using the round shield.

Where do I get a shield?

- ♦ Oh, there's bound to be one hangin' around.
- ♦ It's on the wall in the great hall, by the door.

I thought I fixed the wagon, but the wheel I used came flying off at the last minute and the wagon went off the bridge.

- ✦ You have to make sure the shield is fastened tightly to the wagon.
- ✦ You need something to use as a bolt to hold the shield onto the wagon.
- ✦ Remember, check all of your items carefully in inventory.

Remove the spike from the shield by clicking on it in inventory while "looking" at it in the wagon. That will keep the shield in place, close-up mode. Use the spike on the shield as a fastener after you put the shield on it in inventory.

I met the crystal dragon, but she's depressed and won't talk to me very much.

- ✦ Did you listen to what she said?
- ✦ There's something she badly needs. If she gets it, then she'll probably talk to you.
- ✦ The dragon needs a spark. If you give her one, she'll talk to you.

Where do I get a spark?

- ✦ From a fire.
- ✦ Seen any contained fires around here?
- ✦ You can get a spark from the metalsmith's forge.

I went to the forge, but there are no sparks in the fire.

- ✦ Did you watch the metalsmith while he was working?
- ✦ He did something to the fire to make it spark.
- ✦ Click on the bellows to make the forge spark, or wait until he uses the bellows.

I found the sparks, but I can't get them with my bare hands.

- ◆ You need something to put the spark in. Have you found anything that would naturally hold a little fire?

◆ Use the lantern to catch the spark. It's in the collapsed mine shaft area.

I gave the spark to the crystal dragon, but she just gave me a jewel and flew away!

- ◆ Oh, she's just really happy. She'll be back later.

◆ Leave the room and come back and the dragon will be there.

I came back to the crystal dragon's room, but she's sound asleep and I can't wake her up. How can I get one of her scales?

- ◆ She's not going to wake up. You can still get a scale, but you'll have to find a way to take it yourself.

- ◆ The dragon looks like a diamond, doesn't she? Use something that will cut diamonds.

◆ Use the hammer and chisel on the crystal dragon's tail to get a scale.

I keep getting squashed by the dragon's tail.

- ◆ Maybe you shouldn't stand under it then.

◆ Wait until the tail is out the ground to get the scale.

Where do I get a hammer and chisel?

- ◆ The jeweler can give you the hammer and chisel. Remember what he said about not being able to leave the Underground because he has no money?

- ◆ Give him something of great value.

◆ Give the big gemstone to the jeweler and he will give you the hammer and chisel.

Where do I get the big gemstone?

- ◆ Where did you see a lot of gems?
- ◆ The crystal dragon will give it to you when you give her a spark.

I think I have all of my ingredients. What do I do now?

- ◆ Go talk to Mathilde.

Mathilde said my gold bowl was really brass! How was I supposed to tell the difference?

- ◆ A princess should inspect her inventory items carefully!
- ◆ Both of the bowls in the kitchen cupboard have stamps on the bottom. You need to go exchange the brass one for the gold one.

But I had Walce of Emerald in the brass bowl. Does that mean I have to get more?

- ◆ I said so - in your gold bowl.

I got turned back into a human, but that nasty Malicia locked me in my room, and I can't get out.

- ◆ There's always a way out. Did you look around the room carefully?
- ◆ See anything unusual about the artwork?
- ◆ There's a secret passage behind the portrait of the Troll King.

How do I get up to the secret passage?

- ◆ I'm not going to furnish the answer to that right away.
- ◆ Let's table the question for now.
- ◆ Make a ladder out of the furniture in the room. Do this by stacking the furniture below the portrait.

My ladder is unstable and keeps falling over!

- ◆ A princess should know her physics.
- ◆ You put the biggest thing on the bottom, the medium thing in the middle, and the smallest thing on the top, right?
- ◆ Put the rightward on the bottom, the warty chair in the middle, and the footstool on top. (Think warty)

I got out of the bedroom, but what should I do now?

- ◆ Seek a little help from your friends.
- ◆ You only have one friend in the Underground.
- ◆ Talk to Mathilde

I tried to talk to Mathilde after escaping from my room, but she's all depressed and won't talk much.

- ◆ Poor thing. Maybe you should try to make her smile
- ◆ Have you found anything that made you smile?
- ◆ Use the Magic Toad on Mathilde.

Where do I get a Dragon Toad?

- ◆ You should know that! Ow!
- ◆ You knocked it off the throne when you fell through the ventilation shaft. It's on the floor by the throne.

I'm trying to get out of the Underground, but Malicia appeared in front of the door, and she blasted me.

- ◆ You'll never survive a face-to-face confrontation. You have to find a way to scare Malicia away from the door.
- ◆ You know what she's scared of. You heard her complaining about them earlier.

◆ Use the wind-up rat on Malicia to scare her away.

I made it to the elevator that goes to Ooga Booga. How do I fix it?

- ◆ You can't fix it until after you've been turned back into a human.
- ◆ Mathilde gave you a magic rope, right?
- ◆ Use the magic rope on the bucket elevator.

HELP! I went up in the elevator, but I think it's collapsing!

- ◆ Hope you can hang on until chapter 4!

KING'S QUEST

CHAPTER THREE

"The sky is falling!"

♦ ♦ ♦ THE DESERT ♦ ♦ ♦

Yikes! This giant Gila monster ate me! What should I do?

- ♦ Pretend you're a cheese croquette and smile on the way down.
- ♦ Don't like that idea? Well, you'd better turn around and run, then.

I want to leave the desert, but how can I get past this Gila monster?

- ♦ He's awfully hungry. Maybe you should give him something other than yourself to eat.
- ♦ There's something around here that he likes. Have you seen any evidence of his messy eating habits lying around?
- ♦ Give the Gila monster a prickly pear.

Where do I get a prickly pear?

- ♦ Hmm, I wouldn't try a pomegranate tree
- ♦ From the prickly pear bush. It's near the giant stone head.

I tried to take a peckky pear, but it's too prickly to touch.

- ◆ Use something to extend your reach.
- ◆ Knock the prickly pear loose with the stick.

Where do I get a stick?

- ◆ For the answer to that and other pressing questions...
- ◆ Look at the chapter I hint.

Do I need anything from the kangaroo rat in this chapter?

- ◆ Sure you do. There's something you should trade to him.
- ◆ You can try all your objects on the kangaroo rat, but don't read more into this hint than there really is.
- ◆ Use the book on the kangaroo rat to get an object from him. He will give you a crack.

◆ ◆ ◆ THE WOODS ◆ ◆ ◆

I just met a talking stag in the woods! What should I do?

- ◆ He doesn't seem to be in the mood to play cards, does he?
- ◆ Maybe you should talk to him for a while. Get all the information you can.

I tried to pull the stake out of the oak tree, but I couldn't.

- ◆ You can't. It's going to take someone supernatural to do that.
- ◆ The stag is pretty supernatural, isn't he?
- ◆ shape.
He can't do it while he's a stag, though. You have to turn him back into his human

How can I turn the stag into his human shape?

- ♦ His curse is just a symptom of much worse things going on in the woods. When you find out how to save the woods, you'll find out how to transform the stag.
- ♦ There are two important things you must do to save the woods. They have to do with the giant statues by the river.
- ♦ Ask the rock spirit. He will tell you what your two tasks are.

Where can I find the rock spirit?

- ♦ Look for the biggest rock in the forest.

I found the rock spirit, but how do I wake him up?

- ♦ He certainly snores deeply, doesn't he. Look at that nose!

- ♦ Maybe if you tickled his nose, you could wake him up.

- ♦ Tickle his nose with the feather. You must have talked to the stag about him before he will help you.

Where do I get the object that will wake the rock spirit?

- ♦ You need a feather. Got any birds in your possession? How about lake birds?
- ♦ Remember, check your inventory items carefully.
- ♦ There's a feather on the backside of the rubber chicken.

Where do I get a rubber chicken?

- ♦ From a store specializing in lakes.
- ♦ From the Faux Shop in the town of Faldreth.

I woke the rock spirit, but I didn't know what to ask him and he just got mad at me.

- ♦ You should ask someone in the woods about the rock spirit.
- ♦ Talk to the stag and find out what to ask the rock spirit.

I talked to the rock spirit. Where do I get sacred nectar?

- ✦ Follow your nose. It always knows.
- ✦ Sacred nectar smells just lovely. It's so sweet, it attracts hummingbirds.
- ✦ The sacred nectar is in the flowers that grow on the cliff in the Hidden Shrub area.

I talked to the rock spirit. Where do I get sacred food?

- ✦ Guess what?
- ✦ You can't! In this chapter, I don't worry about it.

I found the nectar, but how do I get it down from there?

- ✦ You're going to need some help.
- ✦ Do you know anyone who owes you a favor?
- ✦ The hummingbird will get it for you after you've saved her from the spider.

Where can I find a hummingbird?

- ✦ Stop reading hints and start exploring.
- ✦ The hummingbird is in the spider's web, on the far side of the river.
- ✦ How do you come to you?
After you have saved her life, walk to the ice bar flowers and talk to them. She will

I need something to put the nectar in. What can I use?

- ✦ Not your basket. It has holes in it.
- ✦ How about your pot?

I got the nectar. Now what do I do with it?

- ✦ You didn't talk to the rock spirit, did you?
- ✦ Go talk to the rock spirit. He'll tell you what to do.
- ✦ spirit.
Live the part of me out on the pitcher maiden's pitcher after you have talked to the rock

I tried to cross the muddy river, but I fell in and died.

- ◆ There's only one place you can cross the river. Look for a likely spot.

◆ You can cross the muddy river by clicking on the large stepping stones.

I stuck my hand in the spider's web and got killed.

- ◆ Didn't your son tell you not to stick your hand in spider's webs?

◆ That's not the way to save the hummingbird. Think of something else.

How can I get rid of this creepy spider?

- ◆ No, don't try to use deadly force. That little beast needs some solitary confinement.

◆ Put the spider in the basket.

I got rid of the spider, but the hummingbird is still stuck.

- ◆ Oh, come on. You're just reading this for fun, right?

◆ Click on her to pull her loose! Good grief!

I turned the stag back into Alis, but the oak tree is still an oak tree.

◆ There's nothing you can do to help her in this chapter.

Every time I walk into the Wood of the Were Folk, I get eaten by a were bear.

- ◆ Maybe you'd better stop going in there until you know more about it. Did you talk to the stag?

◆ You can't go through the were-wounds until you have the magic were-beast savior. You can get that in the town of Faldra.

◆ ◆ ◆ THE TOWN OF FALDERAL ◆ ◆ ◆

This ohnoxious little gate guard won't let me into the town.

- ◆ Did you look around before you read this?
- ◆ Sometimes it's best to just go around a problem.

◆ wrote some great stuff for him. Click on the little door to the right of the big gate. But be sure to talk to the gate guard. I

I got into falderal, but this hyperactive poodle won't let me pass!

- ◆ Emotional little guy, isn't he?
- ◆ Perhaps you should appeal to his more sensitive side. It worked in "The Wizard of Oz."

◆ You need to make the archduke cry.

How can I possibly make the archduke cry?

- ◆ The same way you made yourself cry in the desert.
- ◆ Tell him the story of Rosella's disappearance.
- ◆ Show him Rosetta's golden comb.

The stag told me that a merchant in Falderal might help me get through the werc-woods. Who would that be?

- ◆ Only the slipperiest guy in town!
- ◆ Sssee anyone around here that fills that desssscription?
- ◆ It's the snake oil salesman in the central plaza.

How do I ask the snake oil satesman for what I want?

- ◆ If you showed the comb to the stag in the woods, it won't be a problem.

- ◆ You want the salve so you can go search for Rosella, right? Tell him about Rosella
- ◆ Written on the heart of the water
If you don't talk to the shop about Rosella, use Rosella's comb on the water

The snake oil salesman wants me to get him a magic statuette. Where do I find something like that?

- ◆ The snake oil salesman told you who has it.
- ◆ It's in the town hall's office in the Town Hall

I can't get into the Town Hall because the badger guard keeps turning me away.

- ◆ He's turning you away because you're not dressed for the party. It's a masquerade party, get it?
- ◆ You need a mask to get into Town Hall

Where do I get a mask?

- ◆ It's not in the Farm Shop. Ersatz is fresh out of masks.
- ◆ Tiy the other legitimate merchant in town.
- ◆ The mask is in the Khau shop.

I found a mask, but how can I get it?

- ◆ Maybe if you did something for the china shop owner, he'd be grateful and give you the mask.
- ◆ Talk to the china shop owner and find out what he wants most.
- ◆ Bring Fermanak his clown bird back and he will give you the mask

Where do I find the china bird?

- ◆ Who in Falderal is dishonest and sneaky enough to steal a poor little bird?
- ◆ That's right. The snake oil salesman has the bird

I found the china bird, but every time I try to save her, she screams and calls the snake oil salesman.

- ◆ Of course she screams. She doesn't know you. You must talk to her only friend first.
- ◆ a phrase that will calm her.
You have to talk to the china shop owner before trying to save the bird. He will tell you

What's up with this mean mockingbird? All it does is insult me.

- ◆ That's all it will ever do. It's a MOCK Kingbird.

I got into the party in the Town Hall. How do I get into the rest of the building?

- ◆ There's a doorway on the back wall. Click on the drapery to move it.

Yikes! How can I find my way around these weird stairs?

- ◆ Just explore them. They're not that hard to figure out.

I got into the archduke's office, but I'm upside-down and I can't seem to do anything.

- ◆ You're right. You can't do anything upside-down.
- ◆ You have to find a way to enter the archduke's study rightside-up.

Oh no! I'm in the archduke's office upside-down and the magic statuette just fell on the ceiling! How can I get it?

- ◆ You can't get it from here.
- ◆ archduke's office rightside-up.
You have to leave and come back into the

How can I enter the archduke's study rightside-up?

- ◆ Perhaps you should reflect on it.
- ◆ Remember Alice through the —————?

- ◆ The doorway is through one of the mirrors in the Powder Room. I'm not telling you with it one.

Where is the powdee room?

- ◆ It's one of the doors in the weird stairway. Just keep looking, and you'll find it.

Okay, I give up. Where EXACTLY is the magic statuette?

- ◆ Did you check the desk?
- ◆ It's in the architect's desk drawer.

I guess that chicken was eight, because the moon just fell into the pond! What should I do?

- ◆ Get it out, silly.

How am I supposed to get the moon out of the pond?

- ◆ Ask Bo Peep. She might know.
- ◆ Ever hear the expression, "by hook or by —?"
- ◆ You want to use the shepherd's crook on the pond to get the moon.

Where do I get the shepherd's crook?

- ◆ There isn't one in all of Faldetal. You have to go out of town to find one.
- ◆ The Kangaroo flat in the desert has it. Give him something that rhymes with "crook".
- ◆ You have to trade a hook for the crook.

Where do I get a book?

- ◆ You can find a book here in Faldetal.
- ◆ It's in one of the local shops.
- ◆ The book is found in the Funk Shop.

How do I get into the Faos Shop?

- ◆ Don't believe everything you hear.
- ◆ Listen carefully to the archduke when you first meet him in chapter 3.
- ◆ Where the game started in Chapter 1, Eat the salt found at the well in the desert

How do I get the book?

- ◆ Try asking the proprietor about it.
- ◆ Click on the book to ask about it.

Where do I get a wooden nickel?

- ◆ From under a bogus bird
- ◆ Know any insulting egg-layers around here?
- ◆ It's in the mockingbird's nest.

How can I make the mockingbird move?

- ◆ Got a bazooka?
- ◆ You can't. The mockingbird will fly away when it's damned good and ready to.

Oh, no! I pulled the moon out of the pond, but the archduke just had me arrested!

- ◆ Nobody knows the trouble you've seen..
- ◆ I hope you like lifting weights and getting tattoos.
- ◆ Don't worry. Your trial will take place in chapter 5.

CHAPTER FOUR

“Will the real troll king please stand up.”

◆ ◆ ◆ OOGA BOOGA LAND ◆ ◆ ◆

The elevator collapsed, and I died!

- ◆ You shouldn't have refused a helping hand. Or helping shovel, as the case may be.
- ◆ When the gravedigger hands out his shovel to you, click on it.

The gravedigger just saved my life, but he isn't saying anything.

- ◆ So talk to him! Click on the nice man.

The gravedigger told me somebody stole his rat. I'm supposed to find it, right?

- ◆ You got it.

This coroner seems to have a problem. What can I do to help him?

- ◆ Did you talk to him? Several times?
- ◆ He's got a little spinal integrity problem.
- ◆ He's missing his backbone. He needs a new one.

Where do I get a backbone?

- ◆ Did you look around? Did you look up?

◆ The backbone is in the ghouls' treehouse.

I went up into the ghouls' treehouse, but one of them was waiting for me and killed me.

◆ There's nothing you can do about that. Sometimes there will be a ghoul kid in there, and sometimes not.

I went up into the ghouls' treehouse, but they came climbing up the outside and caught me.

- ◆ You heard them coming, didn't you? You should have run.

◆ Dived is more like it.

◆ Really? If you hear them coming again, click on the window to leap out of it. You'll be all right.

I saw the ghouls playing with the gravedigger's rat, but they won't give it to me. How can I get it?

- ◆ They told you what they wanted for it, if you talked to them several times.

◆ If you give them a weird pet, they will give you the rat.

Where do I get a weird pet?

- ◆ There actually aren't too many around, but maybe someone could put one together for you.

◆ Who do you know in Ooga Booga land who has a lot of spare parts lying around?

◆ The corner will give you the weird pet if you give him his backbone.

I got on the elevator to the ghouli kids' treehouse to give them the weird pet, but they killed me when I got there.

✦ Just look at those two. You shouldn't have trusted them.

✦ Just put the weird pet on the elevator and send it up to the kids.

The Boogeyman leaped out and killed me.

✦ Well, don't just stand there!

✦ Run whenever the Boogeyman pops out. He doesn't want to exchange recipes with you, you know.

The gravediggee offered to dig a hole for me. Where should it be?

✦ You're looking for someone in Ooya Booga land, remember?

✦ You want the hole over the spot where the Thief King is imprisoned.

The ghouli kids locked a cat in a coffin! How can I get it out?

✦ You'll need something to break the seal.

✦ Something strong enough to cut crystal

✦ Use your hammer and chisel on the cat's coffin.

I blew the gravediggee's horn where I'm supposed to, but the Boogeymaa popped up and got me. How the heck am I supposed to know when he's home?

✦ The ghouli kids can tell you.

✦ Remember their little chant?

✦ Whenever the snake-shaped branch on the tree by the deadfall is pointing up, the Boogeyman is home. Whenever it's pointing down, the Boogeyman is out.

Help! What's the combination to the lock on the Troll King's prison?

- ♦ It was painted all over Ooga Booga land.
- ♦ It was on the Manor House ruins and the gravedigger's "garage", remember?
- ♦ The combination is "back to the future"!

I was trying to open the combination lock on the Troll King's prison, but the Boogeyman showed up and got me.

- ♦ Better luck next time!

I got the Troll King's prison opened, but Malicia showed up and threw me in with him.

- ♦ Nothing you can do about that, my dear.
- ♦ After I a slither?

The Troll King and I got squished inside the Boogeyman's prison. How can I get out of here?

- ♦ First of all, you have to show something to the Troll King.
- ♦ Something that Mathilde said was his protector as a child, remember?
- ♦ Show the dragon tooth to the Troll King!

The Troll King told me he needs to get the stone loose from his bracelet. How can I do that?

- ♦ With a tool you've used twice before.
- ♦ Come on, you got it from a jeweler!
- ♦ Use the hammer and chisel on the Troll King's bracelet.

I did everything I was supposed to do in the Troll King's prison, but we got squished anyway.

- ♦ No it wasn't!

The Troll King and I escaped, but the boogeyman keeps getting me.

How the heck am I supposed to get out of this place? The elevator collapsed, and the swamp monster keeps killing me.

- ◆ You have to get past the swamp monster, and you can't do it without help.

- ◆ Ask someone you know and trust in Ooga Booga to help you.

◆ Get help from the Library.

• • • IN THE SWAMP • • •

The Swamp monster gets me every time!

◆ Do you have the defoliant?

• No? See the question right above this one.

◆ 1999年12月27日 星期日

I tried to get the flower next to the carnivorous plant, but the plant ate me.

◆ You need something to distract the plant while you get the flower.

◆ Something tasty! Something with a little meat on it!

Use the foot in the bag on the car window panel, and then quickly take the fragment.

Where do I get a toot in a bag?

- ◆ It was just lying around someplace...

♦ You could have gotten the food in a bag inside the shrimp hats, because, if you're sure thought the were-wolves, you can't go back and get it now. Don't worry, you can find a different fragrant flower hat.

I need to get into Malicia's house, but I don't know how.

- ✦ The front door isn't going to work.
- ✦ Did you check around back?
- ✦ There's a little hole under the tangle of roots at the back of the house.

This hole is too small to crawl into.

- ✦ You're right. You need to enlarge it.
- ✦ You need to use the shovel on the hole to enlarge it.

Where do I get a shovel?

- ✦ Where did you last see a shovel?
- ✦ It's leaning against the "garage" in the graveyard's area. He threw it away.

I crawled into Malicia's house, but she feied me before I even got to come up through the floorboards.

- ✦ You should have waited until she was not home to dig under her house.
- ✦ There's an easy way to tell if she's home or not. Aren't you afraid of that ferocious-sounding dog?
- ✦ Where she's home, the dog is barking.

I got into Malicia's house and started to come up from the floorboards, but she came in and zapped me.

- ✦ Yep. It's usually a good idea to hide from evil people.
- ✦ Click on the floorboards to duck back down.

I ducked when Malicia came in, but her nasty little dog Cuddles smelled me and gave me away.

- ♦ You could always short-circuit his nose with something.
- ♦ You could use something that smells really bad, but is non-toxic to animals. .
- ♦ Use the deflator on the little dog.

The Troll King told me I'm looking for a special device in Malicia's house, but I can't find it!

- ♦ Malicia keeps it in a rather private place,
- ♦ It's in her underwear drawer. The bottom in the chest of drawers.

I was looking for the device, but Malicia came back in and fried me.

- ♦ You took too long. Search quickly!

I left Malicia's house, but for some reason, she showed up and zapped me.

- ♦ It's because you forgot something. Did you get what you came for? Did you clean up after yourself?
- ♦ If you leave Malicia's house without the device, and/or if you don't put back all her underthings, take the stocking and shut the drawer, she'll get you.

I left Malicia's house, and Malicia got me.

- ♦ Didn't you forget to do something?
- ♦ Put your disguise back on!

◆ ◆ ◆ THE WOODS ◆ ◆ ◆

I'm trying to get through the were-woods, but the were bear keeps getting me.

◆ Were-creatures just hate a certain type of metal, you know.

◆ Silver. They hate silver.

◆ You silver pellet can't hurt you!

I tried to get the were-bear with the silver pellet, but it didn't work, and he ate me anyway.

◆ You need to do something to really make that pellet fly

◆ Use a sling to fling the pellet at the were-bear.

◆ How?

Combine the washr stickling with the silver pellet to inventore. Now use it on the were-

◆ ◆ ◆ IN FALDERAL ◆ ◆ ◆

The Troti King thinks there may be a gate to the Underground in Falderal. How do I find it?

◆ Did you ask around? Talk to the locals and see what they say.

◆ It's somewhere in the Town Hall.

◆ The entrance to the Underground is in the powder room.

The mirror that leads to the archduke's office is boarded up.

◆ It sure is. They didn't want any more of you bald-faced pink things getting in there.

Hey! I'm locked in the powder room!

- ◆ Bummer. You'd better find another way out, then.
- ◆ Look around. There's bound to be a clue or two.

◆ Check out the cherub statue.

I think there's something written on the cherub statue, but I can't read it.

- ◆ That's because the plaque is tarnished.
- ◆ It needs to be polished with something coarse
- ◆ Use Mithila's rough wool stocking on the plaque to polish it.

I read the verse on the cherub, but I don't understand it.

- ◆ The cherub wants fruit. Do you see any fruit in here?
- ◆ How about any golden fruit?
- ◆ Use the golden grape on the cherub

Which golden grape?

- ◆ The only one with a hot spot

How do I get the golden grape loose?

- ◆ With the most trusty tool in your inventory.
- ◆ That's right, you're going to use it for the fourth time!
- ◆ Use your hammer and chisel.

The doorway to the Underground is stuck partway open!

- ◆ You're not strong enough to push it open yourself. You need help
- ◆ Turn the Troll King into himself. He'll open it for you

How do I turn the Troll King back into himself?

- ◆ With the magic wand, remember?
- ◆ Make sure the magic wand is set for truth in inventory. Now use the magic wand on the sword Troll King in inventory. If you see a "T" on the device, it is set for truth. If you see an "F", it is set for false. Click on the bottom of the wand to change the setting. Now use the magic wand on the sword in inventory.

◆ ◆ ◆ THE UNDERGROUND ◆ ◆ ◆

Help! The real Troll King and the fake Troll King are in a terrible fight, and the lights just went out!

- ◆ Yikes! They're not coming back on until chapter 6!
- ◆ Yikes! They're not coming back on until chapter 6!

CHAPTER FIVE

"Nightmare in Etheria."

◆ ◆ ◆ IN FALDERAL ◆ ◆ ◆

I can't get out of Falderal!

◆ You sure can't. They won't let you out until you put the moon back into the sky.

How do I get the moon back into the sky?

- ◆ You have to find a way to fling it there.
- ◆ Think slingshot.
- ◆ Think poultry.
- ◆ Use the rubber chicken to fling the moon back into the sky.

Where do I get a rubber chicken?

- ◆ Which store do you suppose is the most likely to carry a fake chicken?
- ◆ That's right, the Farm Shop.

I found the cubbee chicken. How do I buy it?

- ◆ You have to trade for it
- ◆ There's something the Faux Shop owner would really like. Something he ran out of earlier.
- ◆ Use the mask out the Faux Shop owner to get the rubber chicken.

I have the rubber chicken, but I don't know how to use it to get the moon back into the sky.

- ◆ Every slingshot has a big Y-shaped branch involved, right?
- ◆ There's a Y-shaped branch in Falderal. Just look for it.

- ◆ Use the rubber chicken on the Y-shaped branch off the blacksmith's tree. Use the mask on the chicken to bring it.

The rubber chicken ran away!

- ◆ Can you blame him? How would you like it if someone used YOU as a slingshot?
- ◆ Don't worry. He hurts 'bcken Pette, and they fall in love, get married, and have hysterical babies that bounce off the walls. If you didn't get the feather from him earlier, then it will be kept in the crook of the Y-shaped branch.

◆ ◆ ◆ THE WOODS ◆ ◆ ◆

The stag is still here. Should I talk to him?

- ◆ YES

I want to know about the Rock Spirit, or sacred nectar, or startling the river of life. What should I do?

- ◆ Check out these topics in the chapter 3 woods section, that's what.

I have to talk to Ceres, but she's a tree. How do I change her back?

- ◆ Did you talk to Attis?
- ◆ There are two things wrong with the woods right now. If you fix the second problem, Ceres can be turned back into herself

- ◆ The Rock Spirit will tell you what the problems are, and how to solve them
- ◆ You have to restart the cornucopia by planting sacred food here.

Where am I supposed to get sacred food?

- ◆ You can't get sacred food in Elysia.

I have the sacred food. What do I do with it?

- ◆ The rock spirit will tell you what to do with it!
- ◆ Put it in the cornucopia under a horn of plenty.

I started the cornucopia, but Ceres is still a tree.

- ◆ You have to do something to change her back.
- ◆ She needs an enchanted fruit. No, no, don't go to Tami!
- ◆ Take her sound by any way.

Where do I get the pomegranate?

- ◆ You just caused it to appear.
- ◆ It's right on top. You can't miss it.
- ◆ It's in the cornucopia.

How can I get through the were-woods without the were-bear eating me?

- ♦ You have a recipe for this, you know

♦ You have to use the were-bear salve you got from the smoke-oil salesman

I used the salve on myself, but it didn't work.

- ♦ You forgot an important ingredient?

♦ You have to combine the salve with the animal hair in inventory before you use it.

I got the magic salve, but I'm supposed to use it with some animal hair. Where do I get animal hair?

- ♦ I suspect you scared a tuft of hair out of someone earlier. Go back and get it.

♦ Use the tuft of hair the jackalope left behind when you scared him out of the kangaroo rat's house.

Ceres told me I need a crystal shaft to capture a ray of sunlight. Where can I find one?

- ♦ Wicked faeries sometimes have good taste in lighting fixtures.

♦ It can be found in Malicia's house.

♦ On the crystal lamp, Abby!

Where do I get the ray of pure sunlight?

- ♦ From the brightest place in Eldritch.

♦ Inside, not outside.

♦ The ray of sunlight is in the stepped pyramid in the desert.

I'm looking for a place to sleep. What should I do?

- ♦ Look somewhere other than the woods.

♦ Try Ooga Booga

♦ ♦ ♦ IN THE SWAMP ♦ ♦ ♦

That carnivorous plant ate me!

♦ Always keep your eye on the path and don't get lost.

I tried to go into Malicia's house, but the gargoyle got me.

♦ Don't use the front door then.

♦ Go in the same way Kothia did. She dug the tunnel for you and everything!

I went into Malicia's house, and she zapped me immediately!

♦ You shouldn't have gone in when she was home.

♦ If you're on your way into Ooga Booga land for the first time, you have no reason to go to Malicia's house.

♦ You have to wait until her dog is not barking and she's not home before you go in.

I poked my head up in Malicia's house, but she came back inside and zapped me.

♦ Oink!

♦ Click on the floorboards to duck back down before she gets into the room.

I hid under the floorboards when I heard Malicia coming, but her rotten little dog smelled me.

♦ You need to distract him with something.

♦ Dogs love to eat. Give him something really delicious.

♦ Give the sandwich to the dog.

Where do I get ambrosia?

- ◆ Not in Ooga Booga land, Ealdor, or the woods.
- ◆ It's in Ethernia.

Where is the crystal shaft?

- ◆ You're just reading this hint for no reason. Admit it.
- ◆ There are only about FIFTY of them on Shurtica's harp!

I need a place to sleep.

- ◆ Nobody sleeps in the swamp if they can help it (so somewhere else).

◆ ◆ ◆ IN OOGA BOOGA ◆ ◆ ◆

The deadfall ate me!

- ◆ Don't touch it, then!

I saw a headless horseman riding through the sky. Can I do something with him?

- ◆ You sure can. Ask around.
- ◆ Talk to the hawk dog about him.

Yow! A big black dog jumped out of the shadows and won't stop barking at me.

- ◆ He's basically a nice dog. You just need to make friends with him.
- ◆ Give him something that dogs like.
- ◆ Give the bone to the black dog.

Where do I get a bone?

- ◆ Did you try the local bratty bone collectors?

◆ It's in the ghoulish kids' treehouse.

I climbed up into the treehouse, and one of the kids was waiting for me and ambushed me!

- ◆ again!

There's nothing you can do about that. Going into their house is always a gamble. Try the ghoulish kids climbed up and got me while I was in their house.

- ◆ Didn't you hear them coming? Jump for your life!

◆ When you hear the ghoulish kids coming, click on the window to jump out.

I'm really tired of that Lady in Black killing me all the time. Can I get rid of her?

- ◆ She's really Count Tseplish's wife, you know. You should show her something that reminds her of her husband.

◆ Use the medal on the Woman in Black.

Where do I get a medal?

- ◆ That's a ruff question.
- ◆ You need to chew on that one for a while.

◆ bone.

The black dog will give it to you. Talk to him as much as possible after giving him the

Where do I get the headless horseman's skull?

- ◆ It's right where he left it.
- ◆ His wife has been guarding it recently.

◆ It's in the Count's tomb.

I found the Count's tomb, but it's locked. How do I get in?

- ◆ It's a very explosive situation!
- ◆ Why don't you walk around and think about it for a while?
- ◆ Use the firecracker on the keyhole to blow it open.

Where do I get the firecracker?

- ◆ Who around here do you think has a firecracker?
- ◆ That's right, the local fiend patrol.
- ◆ The goblin will drop one in front of his treehouse at some point.

The firecracker blew up and killed me.

- ◆ That's what you get for standing there and looking! Use it faster next time.

I didn't find anything in the Count's tomb.

- ◆ Did you look around?
- ◆ Click on the sarcophagus lid to open it. Click on it again to take the skull.

How am I supposed to get the headless horseman to stop flying around?

- ◆ He's looking for something. You need to give it to him.
- ◆ Give him his skull.

How can I give the headless horseman his skull when he's flying around?

- ◆ He's not always flying around.
- ◆ He touches down sometimes. You have to give it to him when he's riding on the ground.

I tried to use the skull on the headless horseman, but he just ignored me.

- ◆ First of all, you have to use it on him when he's riding on the ground.
- ◆ Second, he won't notice you if you're off to the side.
- ◆ Stand directly in the path of the headless horseman and use the skull on him.

The headless horseman ran me down.

- ◆ You weren't quick enough on the draw.
- ◆ Use his head on him faster next time.

I'm looking for a place to sleep. What should I do?

- ◆ Ask your friends what you should do.
- ◆ You need a professional opinion.
- ◆ Talk to the coroner. He'll help you.

I'm in the coroner's house. How do I ask him to help me sleep?

- ◆ Did you talk to him?
- ◆ Did you look around? See anything that looks soft and comfy?
- ◆ You have to click on him, and you have to click on the coffin.

◆ ◆ ◆ IN ETHERIA ◆ ◆ ◆

I just got dropped off in Etheria by Count Tsepikh's horse. What should I do here?

- ◆ Start looking for help.
- ◆ Walk around and explore.

There are four rainbows here. How do I know which one goes where?

- ◆ Think of them in relation to the layout of the various lands below.
- ◆ The upper right rainbow goes to Fabledral. The upper left goes to Craggy Heights. The lower left goes to the woods. The lower right goes to the desert. It's almost logical!

Ceres told me to look for the Three Fates. Where are they?

- ◆ They're hidden somewhere. Reflect on where they might be.
- ◆ They're aROUND here somewhere.
- ◆ The Three Fates are in the gazing ball in the garden.

How do I get into the gazing ball?

- ◆ It's a question of tone.
- ◆ Notice how the strings on the base of the ball look like a harp?
- ◆ You have to play a particular melody on the strings to get into the ball.

How do I find out what the musical key is?

- ◆ Did you hear anybody humming around here?
- ◆ Anybody small? Anybody that flies?
- ◆ The dragonettes know the musical key.

How do I find out what I need to know from the dragonettes?

- ◆ Your problem is they won't stay close to you for long enough. You need one to settle down for a while.
- ◆ They'd probably stop flying around if you fed them something, don't you think?
- ◆ Something really delicious?
- ◆ Use umbrellas on the dragonettes. One will sing the musical key for you.

I heard the musical key once, but I forgot it.

- ◆ You can use ambrosia on the ingredients as many times as you like, and they will play you the musical key every time.

Where do I get ambrosia?

- ◆ The answer is blowin' in the wind.
- ◆ Climb the mountain for enlightenment and ambrosia.
- ◆ The ambrosia is on the side of the Mountain of Winds, just above the phiton.

I was trying to get ambrosia, but a big mean wind came along and ate me.

- ◆ That happens, just try again.

I tried to go into the cave on the side of the Mountain of Winds, but a hideous monster popped out and got me.

- ◆ That's a nightmare monster. He'll never let you pass.
- ◆ You'll have to trap him.
- ◆ Use the dream catcher on the nightmare monster.

Where do I get the dream catcher?

- ◆ In a different plane of existence
- ◆ Inside the circle
- ◆ The Three Fates will give it to you, but not until you've "dreamed" your way to Mab's island.

The Fates told me I have to sleep to get to Mab's dream island. How can I sleep?

- ◆ That's a good question. You've got some pretty fierce insomnia by now.
- ◆ You can't sleep in Ethera. You have to look elsewhere.
- ◆ Try Chrysa Honga.

I saw Mab, and she was frozen solid!
What should I do?

- ♦ Talk to the wisest people you know
- ♦ Talk to the Three Fates, or Aunts.

The Three Fates told me to talk to someone about thawing Mab, but I'm not sure who they meant.

- ♦ There's only one Mother Nature in all the woods.
- ♦ They mean Ceres.

I found out how to thaw Mab, but I also have to get to Dreamland while awake. How can I do that?

- ♦ When in doubt, ask
- ♦ Ask the Three Fates. They'll tell you.

Where can I find the Dream Weaver?

- ♦ Well, you can't miss his guard dog.
- ♦ The nightmare monster belongs to him.
- ♦ He lives in the cave on the Mountain of Wonders.

I got past the nightmare monster, but the Dream Weaver is ignoring me.

- ♦ He's pretty spacey.
- ♦ him.
- ♦ Click on him a couple of times. That'll get his attention. Now use the dream catcher on

How do I use the Tapestry of Dreams?

- ♦ Just use the tapestry on yourself.

I'm supposed to catch Sirocco. Where can I find him?

- ◆ He looks like a horse, and he goes about 200 miles an hour.

◆ He's the critter that roams past the plateau on the Mountain of Winds. Not the one that eats you, now!

How can I catch Sirocco? He keeps sweeping me off the mountain.

- ◆ Get out of his way

◆ Back up against the wall, next to the wall, and see the single track on Sirocco as he flies by.

I got to the top of the Mountain of Winds, but Oberon and Titania just left me standing here.

- ◆ Things.

(Oh, my, and this was your last chapter. You'd better hope Rosella can take care of

◆ ◆ ◆ IN DREAMLAND ◆ ◆ ◆

A horrible nightmare monster got me.

- ◆ The Dream Weaver told you something important about those guys. Remember?

- ◆ Nightmare monsters like to fight,

◆ Use the dream cat her on the nightmare monster. Fight on the playground!

Mab's still frozen in a block of ice. How do I free her?

- ◆ She just needs a little sunshine in her life

◆ Use the crystal shaft filled with sunlight on her.

Where do I get the crystal shaft?

- ◆ See the Woods section, above

Where do I get the sunlight?

Oops. I came to Dreamland without the crystal shaft, or without charging it with sunlight. Am I in trouble?

♦ No. The Tapestry of Dreams is waiting in your inventory.

♦ ♦ ♦ THE DESERT ♦ ♦ ♦

How do I get the sunlight?

- ♦ Just put it into something that can hold it.
- ♦ Use the crystal shaft on the beam of sunlight in the stepped pyramid.

Where do I get the crystal shaft?

♦ See the Woods section, above.

I don't know how to stop the volcano.

- ◆ You can't stop the volcano.

The Troll King is knocked out. How do I revive him?

Where do I get a fragrant flower?

- ◆ You could have gotten one in the swamp, next to the carnivorous plant.
- ◆ You didn't? You'll have to find one here, then.
- ◆ There's a fragrant flower growing through the grating by the mechanical room door.

I see the fragrant flower, but I can't reach it.

- ◆ You need a stepping stone.
- ◆ Use the stone that's embedded in the wall as a stepping stone.

How can I get the stone loose from the wall?

- ◆ Your hammer and chisel won't cut it this time. You need the heavy equipment.
- ◆ Use the shovel. Click on the stone to climb up.

The Troll King stopped the volcano, but Malicia killed Edgar, and now she's coming for me!

- ◆ Better stop her.
- ◆ There's only one thing in the world that can stop her, and you have it.
- ◆ Use the mysterious device you got from her house on Malicia.

I used the device on Malicia, but nothing happened! Nothing at all!

- ◆ The Troll King told you something very important about that device.
- ◆ It has to be charged.
- ◆ You didn't plug it in!

Where am I supposed to plug in the device?

- ◆ Look around the mechanical room.
- ◆ The plug is on the far left wall, across from the door.

I used the device on Malicia, but it just made a little flash, and she zapped me anyway.

- ◆ You didn't let it charge long enough.
- ◆ You have to plug in the device IMMEDIATELY after you re-enter the mechanical room, even before you wake the Troll King, or it won't be effective.

Edgar's dead!!!

- ◆ Sheesh. What a depressing ending.
- ◆ No, wait! You happen to have something in your pocket.
- ◆ Use the life given to you by the Black Cat on Edgar. Do it fast!

Backstories and Legends

EDGAR AND LOLOTTE

Edgar was born the son of Oberon and Titania, King and Queen of the Faeries. When he was just a baby, an evil faerie named Lolotte was cast from Elheria for treachery and wicked deeds. She was so furious that she concocted a scheme to steal the baby prince from his home. Once she had him, she changed his appearance and called him her own. Oberon and Titania searched the world for their baby, but finally they had to give up and turn their attentions back to their kingdom. They thought their only son was dead.

THE FALL OF MALICIA (HOW COUNT TSEPISH LOST HIS HEAD)

Many years back, Malicia, who is the sister of Titania, hatched a terrible plot to overthrow Elheria. With a band of fanatical followers, she tried to seize power from Oberon and Titania in a vicious attack on the castle. Oberon and Titania fought valiantly, and all of the guardians of Faerieland rose to defend them. All of the rebels were slain or cast from Elheria except for Malicia, who fought like a demon and would not give up. She was dealt a terrible blow by Count Tsepish of Ooga Booga land. His true strike allowed Oberon and Titania to defeat Malicia, but before they could subdue her, she caused her gargoyle to slay the brave Count, and she cast his head from Elheria. Even as she was chained by the forces of Elheria, she spit a horrible curse after the Count. He rose to haunt Ooga Booga as the Headless Horseman, his bride Hspeth died of a broken heart, and his faithful bound stayed with his mansion even as it was hurled to the ground by the Boogeyman, who had collaborated with Malicia all along. The three ghosts were forever cursed to occupy the same laud, but to be cruelly kept apart for all eternity.

EDGAR AND MALICIA

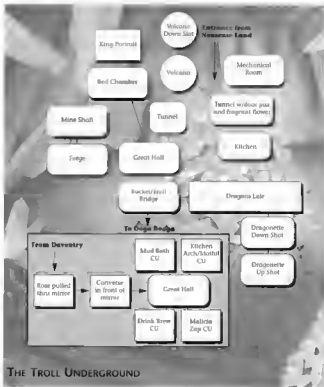

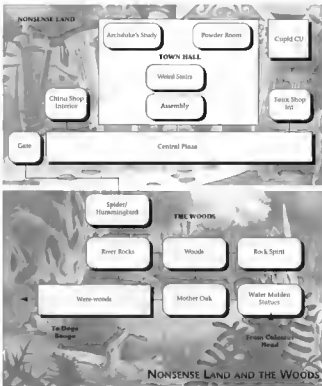

After Edgar was changed back into his normal body by Genesta at the end of King's Quest IV, word quickly spread that there was a strange and noble young faerie of great power living alone on the shores of Tamir. Oberon and Titania dared not hope that it was their son, but they went to meet the young man for themselves. They were overjoyed to discover that it was their long lost boy after all.

They brought him back to Etheria amid great celebration and ceremony. They had a glittering party for him that very evening. What Oberon and Titania didn't know was that Malicia, who had been stripped of her powers and cast from Etheria many years before, had built her power back up to a terrifying level. She kidnapped Edgar from the gardens of Etheria in the middle of the celebration, changing his form to look like the Troll King, whom she had just imprisoned in Ooga Booga land. Her evil scheme not only gained her an impostor Troll King to act as her puppet, but effectively got rid of Oberon and Titania as well. She left false clues and rumors that led them to think their son had been kidnapped by an evil wind. They set out to search for him immediately, and Malicia was free to enact her terrible plot.
